PRIORITY DEVELOPMENT AREAS AND PARTNERS ON INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION: ASEAN REGION

Background

Tourism in the South East Asia boasts unique and dynamic quality products – its people, culture and heritage, rural landscapes, music and literature, cuisine and even religious traditions made it to be the most diverse, rich and highly desirable tourism destination.

Tourism plays a vital role in the ASEAN economies making a total contribution of 12.6% to the region’s Gross Domestic Product (GDP) in 2018 (WTTC, 2019). And, as stated in the ASEAN Tourism Strategic Plan 2016-2025, given that the strategic programs and projects are fully implemented, it is anticipated that by 2025 the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) contribution of ASEAN tourism could increase from 12% to 15%. As one of the fastest growing sectors across the world, tourism also promotes job creation and employment which share could increase from 3.7% to even 7%. It is keen that human capital development is necessary to improve the ability of an individual, as well as to fulfill the need of human capital in the rise of new tourism products and related enterprises.

In its continuous pursuit to boost the existing robust and strong friendly diplomatic relations with its bilateral, multilateral and regional partners, the Philippines will be able to strengthen its partnership with other countries through identifying matters of mutual interest that may be of cooperation, as well as strengths that the Philippines may acquire from its partner countries. This will likewise enable the country to implement projects and programs focusing on the following areas: tourism development planning, marketing and promotions, standards and regulations, human resource development, and tourism investments.

Objective

In 2019, the Office of Tourism Development Planning, Research and Information Management (OTDPRIM) have developed the Comparative Study on International Tourism Cooperation which serves as a guideline in terms of identifying the Philippines' potential partners in the international community to pursue a high-level bilateral engagement. As a follow through, the OTDPRIM will develop a Study on Priority Development Areas and Partners on International Cooperation focusing on the geographical regions, namely: ASEAN Region, Asia and the Pacific, Europe, Africa, America and Middle East.

This study shall serve as a reference of the Department comprising of the following information:

SWOT (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats) Analysis;
Crisis management and recovery plans (Disasters, pandemics, etc.)
Protocols implemented in ensuring health and safety of tourists in the ASEAN Region;
Region's existing tourism products and services;
Priority development areas of tourism in the ASEAN Region; and
